

HOW TO USE THIS SITE

Begin using the Map by clicking on an area of interest.
Click on one of the tabs to get specific information.

Each specific subject tab contains many measures grouped under several categories. Click on a category to see the corresponding measures available.

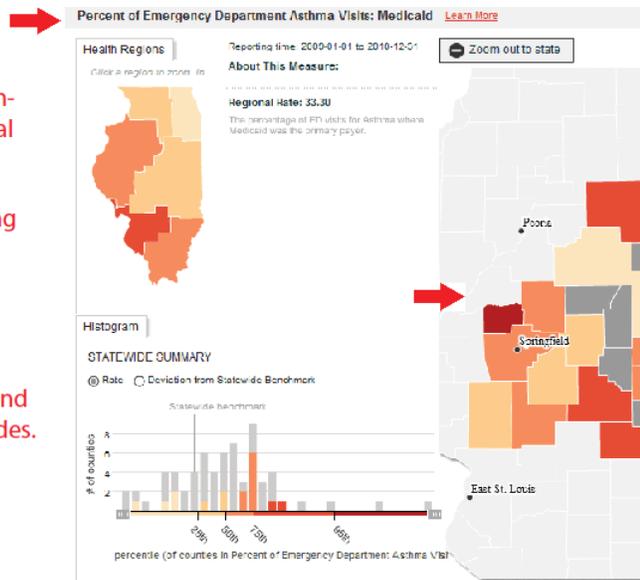

Then select a measure to see the results for a specified geographic area. Illinois geographic information is provided for six major regions, by county, and for Cook County sub-regions and zip codes.

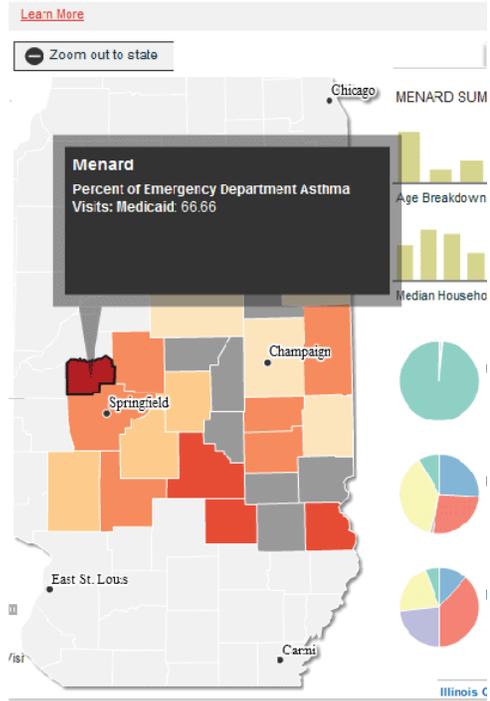

Each specific subject tab of information contains many measures grouped under several categories.

Click on a category to see the corresponding measures available. Then select a measure to see the results for a specified geographic area.

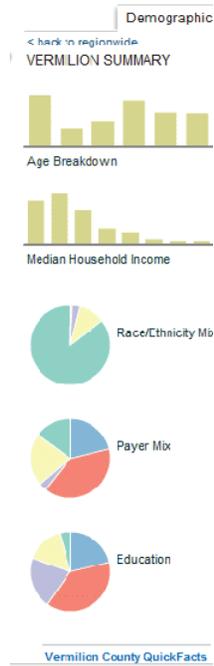

Illinois geographic information is provided for six major regions, by county, and for Cook County sub-regions and by zip codes.

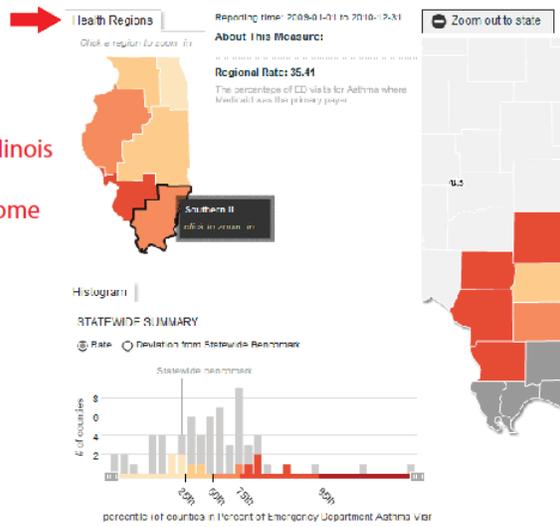

Hover over any county to get the measure results for that county. Notice that higher rates for a given measure are displayed as a darker color. →

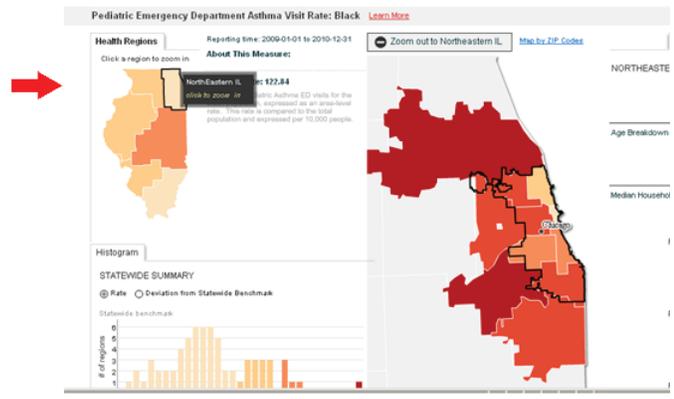

Demographic information is provided on the right hand side of the home page and includes information about age, median household income, race/ethnicity, payer mix and education. Statewide results are displayed, however if you click on a specific county, the demographics for that county will be displayed. →

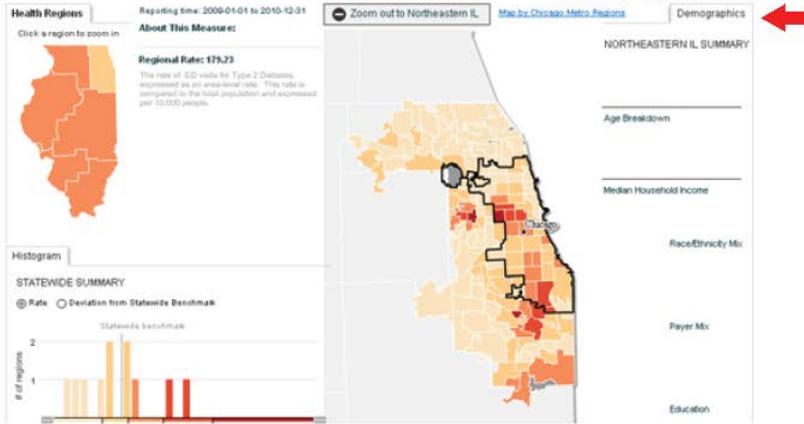

To view measure results for one of the six major Illinois regions, click on a region of choice on the small map of Illinois in the upper left of the home page, titled "Health Regions".

To view measure results for Cook county sub-regions, first click on the Northeast region of the small region map. Then click on the "Zoom to Cook County/Chicago" link. Information for seven Chicago sub-regions and four suburban Cook County sub-regions will be shown.

Once you are in the Cook County sub-regions, you may access some “measure results” by zip code by clicking on the link “Map by Zip Codes”.

Finding a County – You can search for a county by name by clicking on the drop down next to “Search for a County” in the upper right hand corner of the Home page.

Census Quick Facts – To quickly access census information for an Illinois county, click on the “Illinois QuickFacts” link in the lower right hand portion of the home page.

